Location

Bromley is the principal administrative and commercial centre of the London Borough of Bromley and is the largest town southeast of London. Bromley is located approximately 13 miles (20km) southeast of Central London, 7 miles (11 km) east of Croydon and 12 miles (19km) southwest of Dartford.

Bromley is a popular London commuter town due to its excellent travel infrastructure.

Bromley benefits from strong road communications with the A21 passing through the town centre, providing access to Central London to the north and the M25 circular to the southeast.

Bromley has two train stations; Bromley North and Bromley South, both provide direct access into London Victoria and London Blackfriars, with a journey time of 16 and 33 minutes respectively.

London City Airport is 12 miles (19km) north of Bromley and Gatwick Airport is 25 miles (40km) to the south. Both airports facilitate numerous domestic and international flights.

Demographics

Bromley, with an estimated population of around 332,000, is the largest of London's 32 boroughs and serves as the administrative hub of the municipality, as well as its primary retail and commercial centre. Bromley is a highly sought-after commuter destination for London, boasting a higher-than-average proportion of residents employed in financial, professional, and business services. This contributes to a significantly higher-than-average percentage of the population represented in the AB social grade.

Retailing in Bromley

Bromley's retail market is dominated by the pedestrianised section of High Street - the town's prime retail thoroughfare and The Glades Shopping Centre. High Street also hosts an open-air market (Thursday to Saturday) which further enhances footfall making Bromley one of South London's busiest retailing locations.

The Glades Shopping Centre first opened in 1991 and houses approximately 130 stores and 1,500 customer parking spaces. The scheme is anchored by Marks & Spencer and hosts a variety of national and independent retailers, cafes and restaurants.

Situation

The subject property is located in the heart of Bromley's retail core, on the eastern side of High Street - the prime pedestrianised thoroughfare. Bromley High Street benefits from strong footfall due to its situation between the two main entrances to The Glades Shopping Centre.

National multiple retailers within immediate vicinity include:
